Villa Lobos® Mexican Vodka is produced by Licores Veracruz Distillers in Cordoba, close to the infamous Caribbean port of Veracruz, notorious for its pirates and fortress prison, La Fortaleza de St. Ulua. Villa Lobos® is unique among world vodkas containing the famous Agave 'Worm', (Cossus redtembachi), actually the larva of the Night Butterfly which lives in the semi-desert Agave plants of tropical Mexico. For over a thousand years the Aztecs and the Nahuatl tribes of ancient Mexico have collected the worms which they believe have mystical powers, and used them as an integral part of the regional cuisine, as well as latterly enjoying them in the famous spirit of old Mexico, Mezcal. To the Mexicans, the worm symbolises the virtues of 'Machismo' and its properties were highly prized by the ancient warriors. The Agave worm is the link between the origins of Villa Lobos® Vodka and the proud and ancient heritage of tropical Mexico.

Villa Lobos® Vodka is produced from 3 different cereal grains using water taken from the deep artesian wells filled with water from the melted snows on the peak of Mexico's highest active Volcano, El Pico de Orizaba, snow-covered all year round, even in the burning heat of high summer. Distilled 5 times, this ensures it's not only the most unusual Vodka in the world, it's also one of the smoothest.

ORGULLOSAMENTE MEXICANO ! PROUD TO BE MEXICAN !

Here are some tasting notes from Ian Wisniewski who regularly writes on Spirits for many magazines and also wrote the book, 'Classic Vodka'

"Villa Lobos® (Mexican vodka with an agave worm):

Fresh, elegantly mellow grain on the nose, with a charcoal, spicy hint. Mellow but perky palate with fresh grainyness, a lightly spicy kick, gently smoky sweetness, and a meaty hint, balancing nicely as it opens up. Fresh, lightly chargrilled finish."
